TRANSACTIONS AND DISCUSSIONS AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, Held in Madison, February 6, 1889. Madison, Wis., February 6th, 1889. Meeting was called to order at 9:30 Wednesday morning, President J. M. Smith, of Green Bay, in the chair. Reports of officers being in order, Secretary B. S. Hoxie read his report as follows: Mr. President and Members of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society: --In accepting the office of secretary of this society one year ago, I did it with some knowledge of the objects and aims, and the importance of the work to be accomplished, as well as the obstacles in the way of better work and larger success, and my only solicitude has been how to promote the interests of horticulture in our state. The successes of horticulture in our state now must be built very largely upon the failures of past years. For among the masses of our people who make agriculture their profession, horticulture has become a word of doubtful significance, for to their minds it suggests ruined hopes, and dead orchards; and our society meetings only afford an opportunity for some of its members to concoct new schemes to victimize the farmer. And a prominent institute worker said in my presence three years ago that the quickest way to put a wet blanket over an institute was to introduce the subject of horticulture. But owing to the zeal and high character of the members...
